DIPHTHERIA EPIDEMIC RAGING IN McMAHON BOROUGH

One Local Physician alone Attended Fifteen Cases Yesterday, While Disease is Still Rapidly Spreading—Two Cases Reported in City

The residents of McMahon Borough as well as those of this city are greatly exercised over an epidemic of diptheria which is now raging in the former place. The disease is spreading at an alarming rate and much concern is being manifested. This morning two cases developed on Reed avenue this city and the authorities are now seriously considering the placing of a quarantine upon the whole of McMahon Borough.

The two cases reported in this city this morning are in the home of ex-Policeman Dunkle, two of his little boys being ill with the disease. The attending physician has already administered antitoxin however and both children are reported out of danger. Through secretary of the board of health A L Arner, parents and the public in general are warned to regard all symptons of throat trouble with suspicion and to promptly call a physician at the first sign.

Realizing the danger of the spread of the disease among school children, care is urged upon the part of the teachers to report all cases where the slightest symptom is shown. Merchants, butchers and bakers are cautioned to warn their solicitors and delivery men of the danger of entering infected places.

This morning a solicitor representing a local business house was found in a home which was plainly placarded "diphtheria." From there he went from house to house along his route. His case will come before Mayor Shutterly this evening when he will be given a hearing. Too much care in cases of this kind cannot be taken and everything possible will be done to check the spread of the disease before it has gained a dangerous start.

Will Go to Mexico.

Otto Hoverstadt, who has been employed as a pattern maker at the Pittsburg Steel, has resigned his position and will leave Monday for Diaz, Mexico, where he has accepted a position as foreman of the pattern shops with a firm at that place Mr. Hoverstadt has always been held in the highest esteem by his employers here and is well liked by all of his fellow workmen They together with a host of friends while extremely sorry to see him leave, extend them best wishes for his future success

ARNOLD ELECTION FIGHT RESULTS IN CONVICTION OF SIX

In Addition to the Charge of Riot, all, with the Exception of Lemmon are Convicted on an Assault and Battery Charge

After deliberating for an hour and a half the jury last night returned a verdict finding John Clup, James Lemmon, Harry Hood John Hocker, Charles Romig and R C Bayle guilty of riot in connection with the Republican primary election at Arnold last June. All with the exception of Lemmon were also found guilty of assault and battery. The cases occupied the entire week in the quarter sessions court and over 100 witnesses testified.

They were the outcome of the attempt of the George Moore faction to dominate the primaries, the ballot box at the polls designated by the county commissioners having been carried away The prosecution was John I Shields of New Kensington who was roughly handled and confined in the lockup at Arnold for almost twenty four hours.

Sentences will be imposed today The costs amount to over $1,000 exclusive of the defendant's witnesses.

TRAIN HELD, "HUNKS" SCRAP

Freight Car off the Track Blocks Traffic and Foreigners Engage in Melee.

A freight car on the P. R R which jumped the track at Walker a small town several miles below Uniontown, delayed traffic last evening for several hours The passenger train due at Charleroi at 5 16 was over two hours late The train was held at Vances Mill.

During the wait considerable excitement was created by a fight between several foreigners who were riding in the smoker A dispute arose among them and they proceeded to make things lively for a time although they were separated before any serious damage had been done When the train finally pulled into Coarleroi it was a weary looking bunch that got off Several Monessen people were among the number.

The Shanghaied Cowboys

[Original.]

Jacob Russ, alias Arizona Jake, had been in many disturbances of the peace and had arrested many desperadoes. His weapons were, first, his coolness; second, his quick and certain aim with his revolver. A banker once, desiring to send some gold dust to San Francisco, put it in charge of Jake and four others of the same kind, knowing that it would be safely transported. The dust was duly turned in, and the guard determined to do the town.

This was before San Francisco was visited by the great earthquake and fire, and there was a deal to be seen there. What a cowboy would be interested in was not palatial residences or libraries or scientific institutions. The party was rather inclined to sample the product of corn and rye distilled into whisky and after a three days' bout sank to sleep in a gin mill near the bay.

The ship Sarah Rose was sailing out of San Francisco bay, the rising sun shining on her stern. The captain, a short, thickset, ugly looking man, walked the quarter deck, getting her out of the harbor as best he could with three or four miserable looking men who knew very little about seamen's work. The truth is that Captain Barker was such a fiendish tyrant that the only way he could get a crew was to take what he could find in places frequented by sailors, get them drunk, carry them aboard and sail before they got sober.

"Mr. Hale," he said to the first mate, "get 'em up."

Mr. Hale commenced the rousing of a dozen or more men who were lying on deck by kicking them, each kick accompanied by an oath. When roused they would open their eyes, at first stupidly, but, seeing themselves at sea, would exhibit great surprise. After much effort they were all aroused and lined up on the deck for inspection.

"You're a fine looking lot of lubbers to ship for able seamen," growled the mate. "And you fellers over on the end o' the line, I reckon the only ship you ever sailed in was a prairie schooner."

"You're dead right," said one of the men last addressed, "but we'd like to learn the trade at least some of us would—if you'll give us a chance."

"You'll have a chance, and if you don't make the best of it you'll learn seamanship at the rope's end."

With the second mate the first chose two watches and the lot were ordered for'ard. It was not ten minutes before the man who had spoken for "the end of the line" walked forward. He was followed at different distances by four others. The mate ordered him back, but the man paid no attention to the order. The mate seized a belaying pin and rushed at the mutinous sailor with it raised high. There was a report, and the belaying pin dropped on the deck. The mate had been shot through the wrist.

The first mutineer passed on, and the next appeared before the mate, ordering him to throw up his hands, at the same time shoving an enormous revolver up against his nose. The first man when within twenty feet of the captain shot off his right ear. The captain pulled a pistol, but the mutineer dropped it on the deck with a bullet before it could be fired.

"Do you know," roared the captain, "that this is mutiny, and mutiny is punished by hanging?"

"I know that you drugged me and my men when we were celebratin' and brought us off on to this ship against our will."

The second mate was below with half a dozen men, the only regular crew on the Sarah Rose, and depended on by the officers to enforce orders. They were a lot of desperadoes, but were well treated and well paid. Two of the "end of the line" men were at the forecastle gangway. As the mate, who on hearing the shots had rushed for'ard, ran up the gangway he found himself pinned below by a cover that had been put over the opening. He ran aft, calling to his men and reaching the after gangway, and saw a man leaning over it with a revolver. It exploded, and the mate's cap followed the ball. The men below drew back. Then a cover was run over the gangway and battened down. This left only the captain, the first mate and the few men who had been working out the vessel to oppose the five who had taken possession of the ship. Only the latter were armed.

"Cap," said the leader, "I venture to introduce myself as Jacob Russ, commonly called by those who love me for my gentle disposition Arizona Jake. As I tole you, me and my friends would like to learn navigatin', and we'll teach you how to treat respectable citizens in accordance with the law of the land. What trail do you follow, cap?"

The captain hesitating to reply, Jake tipped the end of his nose with a bullet, whereupon he admitted that he was bound for Puget sound.

"I think we'd prefer a short trip southward. You might land us somers about Santa Cruz."

The captain required a little more gentle coercing before he made up his mind that the only course left him was to get rid of the tartars he had caught on the best possible terms. So it was agreed that he would run the ship to Santa Cruz, using the men he had on deck, who were to work under the revolvers of the mutineers. Under a fair wind and good weather the Sarah Rose was run into port, a boat was manned and the five mutineers were rowed by those of the crew who wished their freedom to shore. The gig was left at the dock and the five disappeared.

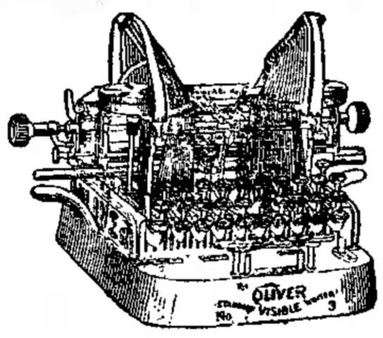
THIS TYPEWRITER DELIVERS THE GOODS

It's the Oliver—the Standard Visible Writer.

The Oliver Typewriter is just like an athlete stripped for a race



It is free from unnecessary multiplicity of wires and springs

No net work of flimsy keys to get tied into hard knots

The nimble fingered stenographer can put talk into type with this machine just as rapidly as she takes your dictation.

For no matter how swiftly she writes, she can see just what she's doing

The keyboard is so wonderfully responsive to the touch of the finger tips that speed comes without effort.

The factors that make for speed are its visible writing, its light, elastic key-touch, and it's all 'round simplicity. It has the fewest possible wearing points, and it prints with a downward stroke.

The OLIVER Typewriter

THE STANDARD VISIBLE WRITER

is a flawless piece of mechanism, combining the strength of tested steel with the perfect adjustment of the works of a watch. You can use an Oliver a life time and the type will not lose alignment

It never suffers from nervous prostration; requires only a little oil and plenty of exercise to keep it at the highest point of efficiency.

The hum of Oliver Typewriters is heard in the most progressive business houses in the land. Sales increasing at a phenomenal rate. Get acquainted with the Oliver! Write for the Oliver book—we send it free with our compliments.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. B. Ball, of Ravenscrest, W. Va., says:—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

Kodol Digests What You Eat.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50 cents.

HAPPY WOMEN.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The dullness of urinary troubles,
To find relief and cure?
No reason why any reader
Should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Almira A. Jackson, of East Front St., Traverse City, Mich., says: "For twenty years I was doctoring for kidney and liver trouble but without benefit. Just before I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was almost paralyzed. I could hardly stand on my feet because of the numbness and lack of circulation. Had a knife been thrust into my kidneys the pain could not have been more intense. My sleep was disturbed by visions of distorted figures. The kidney secretions were annoyingly irregular, and I was tortured with thirst and always bloated. I used seven boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The bloating subsided until I weighed 100 pounds less, could sleep like a child and was relieved of the pain and the irregularity of the kidney action. My circulation is good and I feel better in every way."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Jackson will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

BELT BROKE IN HOOP MILL

One half of the employes of the Hoop mill will be out of employment for the next two days on account of a breakdown which occurred last night. The belt on the ten inch mill broke and it will take at least two days in which to repair it.

A Good Company Coming.

G. V. Halliday, the advance man for the Nick Russel's Comedy Co., was in town today. The company which is playing to crowded houses everywhere is booked for the local theatre soon.

Mother and Son Burned

Mrs. Anna Crawford, 72 years old, widow of William Crawford, of Uniontown, is in a serious condition, as a result of burns received in a gasoline explosion. While cleaning some garments with the fluid she accidentally held a lighted match over the can. Her son, Smith Crawford, ran to her assistance and his right hand was burned almost to a crisp before he extinguished the flames.

Roundhead Officers

At the reunion of the 100th, Roundheads, regiment, held in West Middletown, J. D. France, of West Middletown, was elected president of the association, Julius P. Miller, of Washington, vice president; James C. Stevenson of New Castle, secretary: George O. Jones, of Washington, treasurer and Alvin M. Kedd, of Vienna, Ohio, chaplain. During the past year, eight members of the association have died.

Lost Boy Returns Home.

The little two-and-one-half year-old son of George Schmalz, of 382 Houston street, Washington, who caused considerable anxiety to his parents yesterday by strolling away from home, returned about 3:30 in the afternoon, after an absence of nearly eight hours. The police had been notified in hopes of discovering the child's whereabouts, but it was not until he came home of his own accord in the afternoon that any knowledge of him could be obtained. When questioned as to where he had spent the day the little fellow informed his parents that he had been up on the hill watching a goat, but the identify of the goat has not been discovered.

Queer Russian Ways.

If you drive through a Russian village about 10 p. m. you will be struck by the absolute quiet that pervades the scene. Not a creature, man or dog, is visible moving about. The place has the air of a deserted village. Suppose by some rare untoward chance you come upon a group of men standing together, apparently in conversation, you will notice that they speak in subdued tones, and, wait so long as you please, you will never hear them laugh. The cause is simply this: These Russian peasants believe in evil spirits; but, unlike the Chinese, they believe that they are attracted, not frightened, by sounds. And so if some unlucky fate decree that the moujik be out of doors after 11 p. m. he is a painfully silent man. This feeling also extends to some of the southern towns. Kiev, the holy city of Russia, is a model in this respect. After 10 p. m. you may practically have the streets to yourself.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Vitality A-plenty in Monastic Life.

Oh, my friend, you may prate of wasted lives and idleness and the parasites of the church and all that sort of thing, but I fear it is little you know about the vital forces that are feeding and sustaining and strengthening it every hour of the four and twenty.

If I could show you the letters that came to me from that friar in the south of Europe, letters bubbling over with health and happiness and the sweetest resignation, and then show you a photograph of a young man in tonsure and cowl, with the calmest, clearest eyes that ever looked out from under a placid brow; if you could have felt of his knotted biceps and known the grasp of his small but powerful hand and heard the peal of his hearty laughter—for his spirit was bubbling over even there in his serene solitude—you would perhaps begin to understand why the monastic life, in spite of its tranquillity, never stagnates and why the more you contend against the spirit of the religious orders the more they live and thrive.—From "A Fin de Siecle Friar" in National Magazine.

Weighing a Hair.

"To number the hairs of your head is not a very difficult task," said the refiner of the assay office to a friend recently. "A very close approximation can be made by weighing the entire amount of hair on a man's head and then weighing a single hair. The weight of the former divided by that of the latter will, of course, give the desired number. If you will pluck out a hair from your beard I can show you." A long and straggling one was accordingly detached, the refiner putting it on a scale which was inclosed in a glass case and graduated with extreme accuracy. With little weights of aluminum he piled up one arm until an equipoise was reached. The hair weighed three kilograms. "If you reduce this to figures," said the speaker, "it would require 8,000 hairs to weigh one ounce, and, supposing you have six ounces, you have 48,000 hairs."—New York Herald.

Picking Peanuts.

The seeds of the peanut are planted like beans, and when the vines have come up and the nuts are ready for harvesting the farmer takes a cultivator especially made for that purpose and starts down the long rows. On either side of this cultivator are two long knives which sink into the ground sufficiently to cut the taproot of the vine. The same process is gone through with on the other side of the vine. The main root being thus severed and the ground loosened, the vines are lifted into shocks like corn. They are cured by allowing them to stand in the sun for about ten days, when a colored woman and children are sent into the field to pick the nuts from the vines. An average picker will pick about five bushels a day, for which he is paid at the rate of 10 cents a bushel.

Material For 1,200 Eggs In a Man.

German scientists announce that the material for a man weighing 150 pounds can be found in the whites and yolks of 1,200 hens' eggs. Reduced to a fluid, the average man would yield ninety-eight cubic meters of illuminating gas and hydrogen enough to fill a balloon capable of lifting 155 pounds. The normal human body has in it the iron needed to make seven large nails, the fat for fourteen pounds of candles, the carbon for sixty four gross of crayons and phosphorus enough for 820,000 matches. Out of it can be obtained, besides, twenty teaspoons of salt, fifty lumps of sugar and forty-two liters of water.

Leading Authority.

"Mister," said the sad faced individual who had sneaked in the big sky scraper, "can I sell you the great 'Encyclopedia of Sporting Events?'"

"Nope," replied the busy man. "We have one encyclopedia of sporting events already."

"That so? Where do you keep it?"

"Why, we try to keep him on that stool over there, addressing envelopes I mean the office boy, and he is an encyclopedia on everything from a game of skiddoo to the Olympic games."—Chicago News.

Aroused Her Suspicion.

"Mamma," asked the little girl, "has Mr. Brown got heart disease?"

"I don't know, my child. Why do you ask?"

"Well, it says in my new book that faint heart never won fair lady, and when I saw Mrs. Brown I made up my mind that something must be wrong with his."—Toledo Blade.

To Tell Eggs' Sex.

"It is usually possible," said a chicken farmer, "to tell from an egg's look whether it will hatch out a rooster or a hen. The egg that will hatch out a hen is, you see, quite smooth at both ends. The one that will give a rooster is wrinkled at the point. Sometimes this rule fails, but as a general thing it holds good."

He Couldn't Run Off With It.

The freaks were forming a club. The elastic skin man had the chair.

"Next in order," said he, "are nominations for treasurer. Has any one"—

The wild man of Borneo rose.

"I nominate," he said, "the legless wonder."

Lots of Care.

"You know, George," she was explaining, "I was brought up without any care."

"Marry me, my darling," said George, "and you shall have nothing but care."

No Nonsense About Her.

Skidds—Did she say it was so sudden when you asked her to marry you? Askin—Of course she didn't. She was a widow.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made to the Court of Common Pleas of Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, on the 29th day of September, 1906, at nine o'clock a. m., by virtue of an Act of the Assembly entitled, "An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulations of certain corporations" approved April 29th, 1874, and the supplements thereto, by James McGaughey, Albert D. Agnew, J. K. Boyd, and A. R. Russell, and A. E. Murdock and others for the charter of an intended corporation to be known as "The First United Presbyterian church of Monessen Pennsylvania," the character and object of which is the worship of God in accordance to the faith, doctrine discipline and usages of the United Presbyterian church of North America, with the right and power to receive and accept real or personal property, to mortgage or convey the same in the manner and form as therein prescribed, and to enjoy all the rights and privileges which may be given to it under the Act of Assembly aforesaid and its supplements.
